

The middle son's bedroom featured artwork from his favorite fantasy role-playing game and several of his custom painted skate decks.

The lower level's previous layout had a great deal of idle storage space that was repurposed to create the two older boys' bedrooms. The middle son is an avid fan of the tabletop fantasy role playing game, Magic: The Gathering, so the artwork above his bed features dramatic scenes from popular playing cards in the series. He also loves to paint skateboard decks and has even found a lucrative market for this unique expression of art. "One of his custom painted skateboards was actually purchased by recording artist Drake," adds Martin. "He's a remarkably talented young man and I think it is amazing that one of the most notable rappers today has sought after a 14-year old's custom decks!"

Mood Board for this bedroom