Rachel Nelson's Bold Bungalow

Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan

Fresh colors and bold pattern abound in this 1,000-square foot home that is the perfect size for Rachel, her husband, and their two dogs. The 1930's-era bungalow features beautiful woodwork and wainscoting throughout, with a mixture of high-contrast hues that trick the eye and add depth. Rachel always tells her clients to "surround yourself with things that make you feel good" – a mantra that she clearly employed when decorating her own home, which is full of whimsical furnishings, fresh plants, and items from local Detroit vendors that bring her joy and keep her inspired.

The upstairs bedroom suite is a peaceful retreat with two walk-in closets, lots of geometrics, and a clear glass wall dividing the shower and bedroom area that echoes the feeling of a luxury European hotel. The cozy back yard offers multiple private seating areas, including a lovely pergola and a fire pit ideal for late night conversations with family and friends.
